WagerWorks Supplies Games via GTS

London, England, 16 February 2009 – Leading iGaming software provider WagerWorks announces that it is supplying game content to operators via the Game Technology Solutions (GTS) platform.

In a move to make their games available to even more players, WagerWorks will integrate its premium branded games onto the GTS Enhanced Gaming Engine (EdGE) platform. This will allow any operator using the EdGE platform to strengthen their games portfolio with household brands as well as offer their players top performing games including Cleopatra®, Monopoly with Pass “Go” Bonus, Cluedo and Wheel of Fortune® Hollywood Edition.

GTS is a leading global supplier for online gaming operations. The GTS EdGE system is a truly open games platform and provides a flexible solution to operators allowing access to a wide range of new games from world class suppliers such as WagerWorks. GTS’s impressive client list includes 888, Unibet, bwin, Expekt, and Sportingbet, as well as many other market leading operators.

WagerWorks success in delivering top performing branded titles is unparalleled. Leading brands, rich feature functionality and marketing leading graphics and sound are a powerful draw to new and existing players alike. Integrating these exciting games onto the GTS platform will further strengthen their games offering to clients and players worldwide.

Commenting on the agreement Oliver Lofthouse, General Manager of WagerWorks, said, “At WagerWorks we pride ourselves on the quality and performance of our games. This new agreement with GTS will help us make WagerWorks games available to an even greater number of players and we are therefore keen to discuss this exciting opportunity with all GTS clients.”

Steven Matsell, Business Development Director of GTS, commented, “Our customers demand the most popular and profitable games. With that in mind we are delighted to add WagerWorks games to the EdGE platform.”
